Jury Comments

First Prize | 98660

"A strong commitment to sustainability defines this proposal. The project emphasises the patterns of nature-greenery, water, and the creation of new centres of activity. It envisions a new sports park where nature and human presence can find a renewed balance."

Giovanni Aurino - OD'A Officina d'Architettura

"The project is highly appreciated for its sensible thorough research into the landscape and community. The use of partially underground architecture is a well-considered solution, providing additional space for outdoor life and activities while preserving the site's openness."

Silvia Gelain - Atelier Chony

Second Prize | 101196

"The project is awarded for its urban methodology, which integrates new layers into Codroipo's existing fabric. By replacing rigid fences with vegetative filters and focusing on active mobility, the proposal transforms the district into a shared space where social inclusion and ecological resilience weave a new urban fabric. The strategic framework, built around two loop paths (North Sports Loop and South Nature Loop), reconciles local history with contemporary needs. The new sports hall, a light-filled structure, serves as an architectural hub and a new landmark for the community."

Raffaelle Sciascia - Eur S.p.A.

Third Prize | 94578

"The project presents a solid urban regeneration proposal, highlighting the care with which the new public squares are integrated into the existing urban fabric of Codroipo. Particularly effective is the integration of water systems as a generative structure for the masterplan, capable of transforming a critical condition into an active element of spatial and landscape organization.
The choice of lightweight and flexible construction solutions is also appropriate, allowing for greater adaptability of public space and encouraging its use by the community. Equally interesting is the strategy of reusing existing infrastructure, together with new extensions, establishing a balanced dialogue between memory, landscape, and new urban activities."

Octavio Montestruque Bisso - University of Lima

Jury Comments

Golden Mention | 94895

"""WHERE SPORT FLOWS" creates new and clearly defined social spaces by establishing a functional system of squares, reorganizing existing structures and introducing new, qualifying elements along a linear path. This path is made recognizable through a targeted use of colors, lines, and materials that evoke the Tagliamento River and the rich network of waterways characteristic of the Risorgive of Codroipo, while also restoring public access to the Roggia San Odorico.
"The Linear Pavilion," located in the central area of the district, stands out as a functional social landmark. The new multifunctional building is not only a sports facility; through its position and design, it becomes an innovative focal point and an urban landmark, in close harmony with the Parco delle Risorgive."

Alessandra Baldin - Comune di Codroipo

Golden Mention | 98555

"An extremely elegant project that outlines a new urban landscape. Simple geometries rest upon the ground like woven patterns. Water becomes the element that binds together the various parts of the new urban microsystem. It is a delicate proposal that reinforces the landscape, where architecture remains simple, stereometric, and fully integrated with its context."

Giovanni Aurino - OD'A Officina d'Architettura

Golden Mention | 98694

"The overall urban concept is compelling, envisioning a "diffuse park." The design of the gym is particularly thoughtful, integrating well with the preservation of the former student house, which is retained. The parking concept is also well considered."

Sara Gelibter - Sara Gelibter Architecte

Golden Mention | 99127

"A rich landscape program generating multiple spatial articulations. Human-scaled and domestic at both masterplan and architectural levels."

Francesco Garofalo – Openfabric

Golden Mention | 101388

"Clear and comprehensive proposal, economical in its use of expressive means yet highly effective."

Alessandro Verona - AVS
